Miss Maxine Smith
Honored with Coffee

Miss Maxine Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith of this city, bride-elect of Vird Hall, was honored Monday afternoon March 31, 1938 with a coffee in the home of the hostess, Mrs. James H.

Miller.
Mrs. Miller greeted the guest at the door and presented them to the receiving line which included the honored guest, her mother, Mrs. Clyde Smith, Mrs. Lee Kring, sister of the honoree and little Miss Kathleen Kring, of Houston, Texas.

Miss Smith was attired in a tulle dress, a blue silk shawl with a camellia pinned at her shoulder.

Assisting in the house party was Mrs. Leland Warrick and Mrs. Henry Taylor. Mrs. B. W. Edwards presided at the guest book and Mrs. Robert Walker invited the guests into the dining room.

The table which was covered with a lace cloth was beautifully complimented with an arrangement of purple magnolia's and pink japonica flanked with pink candles.

Individual cakes, coffee, mints and nuts were served by aunts of the bride-elect, Mrs. Delton Smith and Mrs. Cecil Smith.

The honoree received a beautiful array of useful gifts.

On Tuesday April 1, 1938 Miss Maxine Smith of Hope and Mr. Vird Hall of Birmingham, Ala were married and left immediately for Houston, Texas to make their home.

Home room count was won by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Andrews' room.

Invitation was extended for the next meeting in May to parents of children who will enter Brookwood next year.

DeAnn Lilac Club
Met in Wayward Burke Home
The DeAnn Lilac Club met Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Wayward Burke with Mrs. Mamie Critchlow as co-hostess.

The house was called to order by the president, Mrs. Roy Burke. Scripture reading from the 3rd chapter of John was read by Mrs. Wayward Burke followed by prayer by Mrs. Claud O'Steen.

Mrs. Carlton Samuel, chairman of the visiting committee gave a report on visiting the Hardings, new comers in the community, welcoming them into the community, church and clubs.

Mrs. Carlton Samuel was elected as new vice president and reporter. Mrs. Jewel Burke, chairman, Mrs. Claud O'Steen and Mrs. Roy Roberts appointed as program committee.

The club decided to omit the January and February meetings, and meet in the Summer, due to better attendance.

Mrs. Mamie Critchlow had charge of the program, "Dried Materials for Winter Bouquets." She had all kinds of dried grass, showing the many colors it would be after it dried, and the ways to dry it. She also showed how to make buttons, zinnias, pinces, feathers, hydrangeas and many flowers that can be dried successfully for winter arrangements. Old pieces of logs or stumps are good compliments for dried materials.

Mrs. Lida Arnold won the prize for the best flower arrangement. Refreshments were served to 10 members and four guests. Mrs. Dolly Hartsfield, Mrs. Sid Burke, Miss Little Clark and Mrs. Willis. The May meeting will be with Mrs. Jewel Burke and Mrs. Richard Arnold.

Personal Mention

BOMBS EXPLODE IN IRELAND
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UP)—Four bombs believed set by the outlawed Irish Republican Army exploded in Northern Ireland Monday night. No one was hurt by the bombs, which damaged the Labor Exchange at Newry, a customs hut and a bus at Rostrebor and another customs hut at Mullin.

Beverly Hills Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson testified that when he arrived at Miss Turner's home last Friday night, Lana ran to him crying.

"Can't I take the blame for this horrible thing?"

"I told her, 'No, we must learn all of the facts and that's what we shall do.'"

Anderson said Lana explained that her daughter had rushed in to protect her from Stompanato, small-time Hollywood hoodlum who had carried on a flaming love affair with Miss Turner for months.

"I heard my daughter sobbing. I went into the bathroom and got a towel. He was making very dreadful sounds in his throat of gasping-terrible sounds. I telephoned my mother."

Looking spruce and pretty in spring is easy when a girl has one or two washable suits in her wardrobe. This girl is careful to keep the manufacturer's instruction tags (upper left) and to identify the garment on each tag. Then, when she's ready to launder her new suit, she can refer to the tags. don't listen to any of this, go back to your room." I pleaded and begged with her to go to her room.

Cheryl left the bedroom at this juncture, she said.

"I said to him, 'Well, that's just great,' that my child had to hear all of that."

"Never Saw a Blade."

Miss Turner said Stompanato had a jacket and a shirt hanging in a closet of the bedroom and he went to get them. He came back carrying a clothes hanger and moved toward Lana as if to strike her.

"I told him, 'Don't ever touch me again, we're finished. This is the end.'"

"I walked toward the door and he was following me. I opened it and my daughter came in. I swear it was so fast that I thought she'd hit him in the stomach."

"They came together, they parted. I still never saw a blade."

"He grabbed himself here (the coroner then interposed to have the record show that the abdomen was meant). He started to move forward, and about a half turn, dropped on his back, his arms out."

"I still didn't see blood or any wound until I ran over to him and took his sweater out."

DOROTHY DIX

Pony Player Don't Bet On This 'Steak Race'

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm writing not to ask for advice, but to give some. Two years ago I married a widower who was a fine man but an incorrigible follower of the horses. Although he made a good living most of his money went on the nags. Finally, I took up the "sport" and played the horses with my house money. This was the cure. When he came home and was told that he had lost his money, he stopped after 30 years, I'm told. Can anybody use the tip? — Clever, huh?

Dear Clever: Thanks for the tip. It's a long shot, but as it paid off in your case, other readers may follow it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a widow of 35, with two married children. I live by myself, have a comfortable house and a small income, but I am always alone. I don't go out except to visit one sick friend. Where can I go to meet people my own age? I've been doing part-time work, but the business closed and I've been home for several weeks. I'm always in the house, getting upset and worrying.

Dear Noreen: The easiest habit to drift into, and the hardest to break, is the one you have — sitting in the house alone and worrying. Once that plague sets its mark on you, you're sunk. Stop it now before it gets any worse. How about another job even if it isn't essential for our bread and butter? Get work where there are people; be a cashier in a movie house, a waitress, saleslady in a department store, clerk in a small shop. At the end of the day you'll be too tired to worry.

ministers."

"The Soviet reply is manifestly not an acceptance to the Western proposal," the White House said.

The United States, Britain and France proposed in identical notes March 31 that Russia agree to ambassador-level talks in Moscow, the second half of April to determine whether a summit conference would serve a useful purpose.

The Soviet reply, informants said, agreed to an ambassadorial meeting and suggested that it begin April 17.

At first glance this appeared to be a concession to Western views that careful preparatory work must precede any top level meeting to ease the cold war.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles took a high translation of the note to President Eisenhower this morning. The President delayed his departure for a weekend at Augusta, Ga., to discuss it with Dulles.

They dictated notes to Hagerty who read the U.S. reaction to White House newsmen.

United Press Writer Dies at Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—John Colton, Houston bureau manager for the United Press and formerly with the Little Rock bureau, died early today following a short illness.

The 50-year-old veteran newspaperman had been with the United Press since 1948, when he joined the staff of the New Orleans Bureau. Later, he moved to Little Rock, Ark., and went to Houston in 1954.

Colton had been in newspaper business since 1925, starting as a copy boy with the Baltimore Sun. He later worked on the New York Times and the Brooklyn Eagle.

After World War II, he was discharged from the service in Texas. He decided to stay, and worked for the Beaumont Enterprise and later the Fort Worth Press.

He was night bureau manager for United Press in Little Rock. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Helen Colton Colton, and his daughter, Carl, both of Houston. Mrs. Colton is a niece of former Texas Governor Coke Stevenson.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—An amusement company owner who punched Little Rock City Manager Dean T. Gaulty in the nose two weeks ago resigned from the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

Cecil B. Hill turned in the resignation, saying a scheduled hearing to which he had been summoned today by the chamber would have been a waste of time. Hill charged the chamber's board of directors planned to "take an action which has already been decided upon."

The chamber had requested that Hill appear to show cause why his company should not be expelled from the chamber. Hill was asked to appear three days after Hill had been following a police visit to Hill's business.

Hill's resignation gives the matter as far as Hill is concerned, said chamber President Warren E. Gray.

Charge Police Helping CBS in Strike

CHICAGO (UP)—An official of striking Radio and Television Workers has charged that military police are being used as guards at the Columbia Broadcasting System's studio here.

Marvin W. Balousek, president of Local 1220 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said Wednesday that soldiers from the 5th Army were brought to the building in Army vehicles.

Some of the MP's were armed, Balousek said, announcing he had telegraphed his protestations to the Senate Labor-Management Committee as well as several senators.

Balousek said he based his charges on reports received from pickets who are maintaining a 24-hour line at the studio. CBS also had hired the number of guards since the strike began, he said.

The union officials' charges were denied by Frank Atlass, in charge of programming at CBS.

"These men have permission from their commanding officer to work as guards on their off-days and off-hours," Atlass said. "As far as I know, they did not come in uniform, nor in Army vehicles."

Marshall Leads in Hockey Play

HERSHEY, Pa. (UP) — Willie Marshall, the guiding force behind Hershey's sweep to the American Hockey League pennant this year, is still leading the way in the Bear's quest for the Calder Cup championship.

The league's leading scorer tallied twice Thursday night as the Bears edged Springfield, 3-2, to begin the first game in the best-of-seven final playoffs. The third and decisive Hershey goal was scored by Ed Stankiewicz.

The second game of the series will also be played in Hershey on Saturday, with the scene shifting to Springfield for the third and fourth games.

HEZZARD CHALES "FIT" CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP) — Former world heavyweight champion Hezzard Chales, who is planning a comeback, was pronounced "fit and in excellent shape" today by Dr. Giles Deconey, Chales, who is 34, is expected to make his first start against Buddy Thurman at Houston, Tex., on April 25.

REDKINS SIGN TWO WASHINGTON (UP) — Tackle Don Glantz of Nebraska and end-tackle Jackson Brumfield of Mississippi Southern have returned signed 1958 contracts to the Washington Redskins. Glantz was the Redskins' fifth draft choice in 1955, while Brumfield signed on as a free agent.

HAVANA GETS MOREJOV CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs, who have to cut two more players from their roster by Tuesday to get down to the opening day limit of 28, sent outfielder Dan Morejohn to their Havana club in the International League Thursday night.

DESSERT EN SAISON LONDON (UP) — An Italian restaurant operator gave passing notice to Britain's coldest April with this entry on his menu today: "Sauce of the season — Christmas pudding."

Olympics May End the Winter Games

LUSANNE, Switzerland (UP) — Because the amateur standing of many skiers, figure skaters, and hockey players is "subject to question," the International Olympic Committee is considering ending the winter Olympics after the 1960 games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Otto Mayer of Switzerland, chancellor of the IOC, made that disclosure Thursday in discussing the case of Austrian Olympic ski champion Toni Sailer who faces an amateurism investigation.

"We are heading towards the end of the winter Olympics," said Mayer. "If the structure of skiing is not profoundly modified, the 1960 winter games in Squaw Valley may well be the last in the history of modern Olympics."

Goalie Is Tost of Bruins' Camp

MONTREAL (UP) — Goalie Don Simmons, a disappointment in the Stanley Cup finals a year ago, today was the toast of the Boston Bruins camp for his second straight "sensational" game against the Montreal Canadiens.

The 26-year-old left-handed net-minder turned back 31 shots, many of which appeared to be sure goals, as the Bruins upset the Canadiens, 5-2, Thursday night to square the best-of-seven finals at a game apiece. The series now moves to Boston where the third and fourth games will be played April 13 and 15.

Simmons has been the biggest surprise of the series so far. Tuesday night he was also outstanding, stopping all but two of the 44 shots he faced.

The Bruins gave Simmons a big 31 first period lead to work on at the one time led, 4-1. Bruce Horvath, a major disappointment in himself in the semi-final series against New York, led the Bruins with a pair of goals, including the one which proved to be the winner. Rookie Norm Johnson, Don McKenney and Larry Regan also beat goalie Jacques Plante.

Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion and defenseman Dug Harvey were the only Canadian marksmen to beat Simmons.

KEENELAND STARTS WELL LEXINGTON, Ky. (UP) — Jockey champion Willie Harlick helped get the 11-day Keeneland Thoroughbred racing meet off to a good start Thursday by accounting for three winners, including a race in the featured race for three-year-olds (fillies). A $500,000 daily double was recorded, the first double ever in the 22 year history of the track.

8 Pound, 7 Ounce Bass Is Landed

HOT SPRINGS (UP) — Roy Williams of Hot Springs landed a largemouth black bass weighing eight pounds, seven ounces at the opening Thursday of the 10th annual fishing derby on Hot Springs' chain of lakes.

The fish was caught at Lake Hamilton.

Other opening-day winners: Smallmouth black bass division — Ray Terry of Hot Springs, catch two pounds 5 ounces, Lake Ouachita.

White bass division — Pat Patterson of Hot Springs, two pounds 15 ounces, Lake Hamilton.

Crayfish division — Tom Elliott of Jesselville, two pounds 10 1/2 ounces, Lake Ouachita.

Fishing in the derby today was limited to out-of-state contestants.

Silky Works Out for West Coast Race

ALBANY, Calif. (UP) — Silky Sullivan, the horse with the jet-propelled finishing spurt, takes his final West Coast pre-derby workout at Golden Gate Fields today when he goes to the post as a probable 2-5 favorite in a $10,000 allowance race.

The powerful chestnut, winner of seven out of 12 starts in his short career, will be faced by seven other three-year-olds in a one-mile test over a lightning fast track. He will pack 122 pounds.

His rider will be Willie Shoemaker, who also will be up when Silky goes to the post in the Derby at Louisville May 3.

For a three-year-old who has won only one major race in his life, Silky probably has had more written about him than any horse in history.

But that is because he is unorthodox. His style is to let the rest of the pack get ahead of him anywhere from 2 to 45 lengths. Then he turns on the steam and comes up to win or come close in the last few strides.

Champs' Love for Shooting Almost Tragic

TODAY'S SPORTSMAN Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. BY RICHARD GLASS United Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UP) — Four years ago Ed Garlington's love for shooting almost resulted in his blindness.

Today, with a new pair of glasses, a new tick powder for his dogs, and a growing set of calluses on his hand, shoulder and hip, he is ready to resume his fortunes as a tournament trap shooter.

In the 1949 North American clay target championships at the shooting center of Vandalla, Ohio, Garlington broke 347 straight clay pigeons to move into a four-way tie for first place and come out second best in the shootoff.

Eyesight Gets Worse The winner of some two-score state titles in his Dixie stamping grounds, Garlington dropped out of competition in 1954 because his eyesight was getting progressively worse. But he continued to hunt quail and to train his dogs.

The tick powder he used then was a powerful one, and it dulled his eyes. In time he developed "hundreds of little ulcers in the membrane." Almost blinded, he underwent months of injections and medication before the condition was cured. With a new addition to his collection of glasses — he travels with 13 pair for various uses — he felt up to shooting again.

In February Garlington went to Sarasota, Fla., for his first competitive shooting in five years and won with 91 of 100 birds in doubles. In the event, the shooter must break two pigeons which fly from the trap at the same time at different angles. Feeling confident, he set his sights for Venezuela again.

"But I won't be tournament tough," he said, "until my hands are hard for the gun, and I've got a good callus on my shoulder for the butt, and one on my upper right hip from sighting. But I'm progressing, and the eyes are the main thing."

Many Delays The bird leaves the trap at around 50 or 60 miles an hour. There's delay while the eye tells the brain, and the brain tells your pointing hand, and your trigger finger. There's a time lag in the trigger, one in the spring, one in the ignition, and another in the time it takes the charge to catch the bird.

Your lead has to compensate for all these things. In the mean time the bird is heading away from you and your shot is spreading out. If you're late in getting the shot there, the pattern will be so wide it might not touch the bird."

Garlington has hunted since he was a boy on a 1,300-acre farm near Cedarblow, Ga.

Arkansan Is Charged in Mail Robbery

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Postal authorities said today a 26-year-old Hot Springs, Ark., man has confessed stealing 37 mail bags containing more than $15,000 in a nationwide operation.

Postal Inspector Frank Mouton said the man Joe Graham Ingram, admitted operating from California to Pennsylvania and in most Southern states. He began his thefts more than four months ago when he escaped from a Texas mental hospital in San Antonio.

Ingram was indicted here by a federal grand jury for theft of three mail pouches.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Lloyd Melancon said Ingram was arrested recently in St. Louis, Mo., where he is now in custody. Melancon said his office would move quickly to have Ingram returned to New Orleans to stand trial.

Mouton said Ingram was convicted twice in Texas for mail theft. He said Fort Worth, Texas, postal authorities directed the search for Ingram.

Mouton said Ingram admitted getting $15,000 in cash from the 37 mail pouches, plus checks, some of which he cashed, and jewelry which he pawned.

Ingram was indicted for the theft of a mail pouch Dec. 24, 1957, at Hammond, La., and two pouches last March 10 at New Orleans Union Passenger Terminal.

In a signed statement, Ingram told investigators he got $5,000 in savings bonds in the Hammond theft plus $2,000 cash and some money orders.

Part of his loot was also reported to be diamond rings.

Authorities said Ingram was accompanied in his operations by Miss Betty Freeman, 19, of Hammond.

The U.S. Attorney's office said Ingram reported Miss Freeman to investigators in Baton Rouge because she wanted to quit her connection with him.

MOUNTING TENSION — Although she doesn't seem too sure of her equine equilibrium, French film beauty Brigitte Bardot manages a nice smile as she clings to a horse in Paris. She's taking her first riding lesson in preparation for a new movie role.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE SEA—A girl with a bridge all her own is nine-year-old Marisa Leonzio, who made headlines recently when she wrote a plan for a span over a stream close to her home near Nibbiana, Italy. She wanted the bridge because the waters of the stream rose so high she was often unable to wade across and had to make a four-mile detour to get to school. Marisa got her bridge to school and also one to America, when Columbia Pictures, who paid for her bridge in Italy, invited her to a Washington, D.C., premiere of its film, "The Bridge on the River Kwai," as a guest of the American Field Service. She holds a model of the bridge in the film against the background, appropriately enough, of New York's Queensboro Bridge.

Lonesome River by Frank Gruber Copyright 1957 by Frank Gruber. Distributed by NCA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Tom Weber is anxious to learn what's behind Mike Denver's moves to obtain control of Lobo Valley. Settlers are being terrorized by gunmen.

XVI It was early evening when Weber came to his destination, the dam that now spanned the entrance to what had once been Lobo Canyon.

The dam was an earthen one, some 300 yards in length; it was reinforced at each end where it became part of the original canyon wall with heavy concrete buttresses. The sluice gates were of wood, reinforced with great straps of iron.

He started toward the dam and as he approached, discovered that concrete steps had been built alongside the concrete reinforcement.

He reached the top of the stairs after some exertion, and found that he was a dozen feet from the little one-room cabin.

"Hello, the house!" he called. After a moment the door was opened and a man stepped out. "Come on in," he called to Weber. "C'mon in and have a cup of coffee."

Weber found the watchman to be a man in his late sixties, a grizzled old timer on Lobo. His name was Shallogross.

"Lonesome job in the world!"

he complained to Weber as he set out an extra tin cup. "Ain't he no visitor in over a month."

"My name's Weber."

"Charlie Weber's boy!" Shallogross blinked. "But young Weber lit out years ago, and nobody's ever heard of him."

"I returned a few days ago."

"But your pa was surprised. He took it kinda hard when you run out!" — Shallogross grimaced — "I got so doggone lonesome here when I do see someone, I can't keep my mouth shut. Sorry—Ben, isn't it?"

"Tom."

"Sure found things different, didn't you like this here dam. And Jeff Alderton running the old Lobo. Never thought I'd ever see anything like that. And now they tell me he's gonna be governor. Why, I remember Jeff when he wasn't nothing but a—Ho, I can't say that. He's paying me my wages now. Seems like there ain't a thing I can talk about."

The night riders, about the time Weber was riding back to his ranch, were out, all right, but there were only two of them and they were some distance from Weber's place.

They rode their horses up to Leo Blatnik's barn and there Paul Partridge dismounted. He took a rifle from his saddle scabbard and looked up at Pete Rawlins, who had remained on his horse.

Rawlins raised himself in his stirrups. "Blatnik!" he called. "Come outside."

There was movement inside the house, but the door did not open. The muffled voice of Leo Blatnik called out, "who is it. What do you want?"

"It's the Sheriff," cried Paul Partridge. "You don't come out, we'll burn your house down."

Then the door opened. Blatnik, framed in the doorway, had a double-barreled shotgun in his hands. He never got to use it. Partridge took quick aim, pulled the trigger and working the lever with amazing speed, sent a second bullet through Blatnik before the farmer hit the ground.

"Let's go," he sang out, waiting back to his horse.

There had been some discussion as to whether Blatnik's body should remain in his own home until time for the burial, or be taken to his sister's home. Charles Weber suggested the latter course, but Hicks had demurred.

"I am sure he would want to be in his own house," so Blatnik lay now in a rough, unadorned coffin in the front room of his three-room shack. A couple of benches had been set up along the walls and the farm women sat on them.

The men gathered in the kitchen. They talked in low tones and drank a few glasses of wine.

Robeson Talks About His 10 Years Exile

CHICAGO (UP)—Singer Paul Robeson celebrated his 60th birthday Wednesday night reminiscing about his "10-year exile" and the changed American attitude toward him.

Robeson, sipping a highball and appearing relaxed, spoke at a news conference before his singing appearance at a concert sponsored by the Chicago Council of Soviet-American Friendship.

He recalled his 10 years of "exile" from the American people which began at the height of his career when he was accused of Communist sympathies.

"Everybody is nice to me now, but two or three years ago they weren't," Robeson said. "I can't explain why."

The 6-foot 2-inch singer termed himself a "20-year champion in the cause for Negro rights—a front line soldier in the battle for equal rights for my people."

He said that despite his troubles, he believed "my people were always with me and I was not isolated from the Negro community at any time."

Robeson said he felt he still has "five good years left in me." His greatest hope, he said, is to obtain a passport so he can travel to England and perform the role of "Othello," the part in which he scored one of his greatest Broadway triumphs.

However, Robeson said he never came early, some of them, and they remained late. The kitchen was too small and knots of men gathered outside.

It was nearing 10 o'clock when Lily Alderton rode up on her filly and dismounted near the barn. A half dozen of the farmers were assembled nearby and they watched her as she dismounted and walked toward the house.

Helga Weber got up as she came in. "Mrs. Alderton," she said, "it is nice of you to come."

"Your brother was a good man," Lily said.

She went to the coffin, looked into the dead face of the farmer, Lily started to turn away, then stopped abruptly. "Tom Weber stood a dozen feet away. How long he had been there she did not know. Helga also saw Weber and exclaimed softly, "Mrs. Alderton, is that not my husband's son?"

Lily nodded. "Yes."

"Will you introduced me I—I want to talk to him."

Lily moved toward Weber. Helga, at her side, "Tom, I want to introduce you to—your step-mother, Mrs. Weber, Tom Weber."

It was a poor introduction and Lily knew it. She walked away quickly, discomfited. "I—I have thought so many times of what I would say if we ever met, but now—now, none of it seems to fit."

Try to Steal Another Plane Beaten Off

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—The four-man crew of a South Korean Air Force C-46 transport plane today fought off the attempt of an armed and rebellious ROK Air Force captain to hijack the plane to Communist North Korea.

The ROK Air Force said one crew member was shot to death in the airborne gun fight and two others were wounded the rebellious North Korean-born officer identified only as Capt. Choi, was armed with a .45 caliber service pistol.

The abortive hijacking attempt came less than two months after Communist agents successfully hijacked a Korean National Airlines plane with 34 persons aboard on Feb. 6.

On Regular Flight Air Force officials said the incident occurred shortly before 9 a.m. today over Pyongyang, about 40 miles south of Seoul. The plane was on a regular flight from Tugue to Seoul.

The Air Force announcement said the captain entered the cockpit and attempted to take over the plane. The crew resisted and after the battle in the sky made an emergency landing at Pyongyang. The captain was arrested.

Choi was reported still unconscious and under medical treatment as result of a severe beating he received during the fight.

Other sources said Choi entered the cockpit with his .45 drawn and ordered the crew to fly the plane to North Korea.

Radio Man Killed The captain then shot and killed the radio man, Cpl. Kim Sang He, and wounded the pilot, Cpl. Kim Pak Him in the arm, and a mechanic, Sgt. Chun Byung Hoon, in the leg.

Only seven persons were aboard the plane and the other two passengers did not know of the hijacking attempt until the emergency landing was made.

The plane was scheduled to fly some 20 Korean newsmen from Seoul to Chinhae, on the southern tip of Korea to cover graduation exercises at the naval and air academies in that port city.

or again would sing for a commercial "promoter," but would confine his performances to Negro, church and cultural groups and "anywhere I can advance the cause of Soviet-American friendship."

Asked if he was a Communist, Robeson angrily replied, "I refuse to answer your question. In 1947 I said I wasn't and I resent the insinuation that I am a communist."

"I know a lot of Communists," Robeson said, and added he does not believe Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev is an "enemy of peace."

He broadcast claimed that "the (in-

AP&L Revenues Hit a Record

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Power and Light Co., in issuing its report for 1957, disclosed today its total revenues topped $55 million for the first time.

AP&L said also it has a record of more than $8 million in net income during the past year. The annual report is sent to stockholders, bondholders, employees, investment bankers and Arkansas community leaders.

The report also said a new high in electric energy sales totaling 4.9 billion kilowatt-hours was reached and that new rates were established to promote active use of winter time home heating.

Another new factor in 1957 for AP&L was that the firm entered the atomic energy field when it joined with other investor owned electric utilities in a $5 million research and development program which may lead to construction of an atomic power plant.

Explosions Jar Havana in Cuba Revolt

HAVANA (UP)—Bob explosions jarred Havana Wednesday night and early today, the second day of the rebels long-threatened "total war against President Fulgencio Batista's government."

Both the government and Fidel Castro's rebels claimed victory in Wednesday's "first stage" — a flurry of violence in which at least 15 persons were killed. Unofficial estimates reaching New York placed the nationwide toll at more than 30 deaths.

Two powerful bombs exploded in suburban Vibora, where the 5th Infantry Regiment has its headquarters. A third was set off in Regla, across Havana Bay, where the Sinclair and Shell Oil refineries are located.

It was impossible immediately to estimate damage.

Observers here were waiting to see whether rebel threats to fire on any shop that remained open and on any bus or truck using Cuban highways would make Castro's "revolutionary general strike" effective.

Havana was generally quiet during the night in the grip of tight security precautions.

Some squares and government buildings had been blocked off, and heavy guards were stationed at other key points.

Most establishments not directly affected by the outbreak of violence continued to do "business as usual." Eusebio Mujal, secretary of the powerful CTC Union Federation, predicted there would be no general strike.

The government announced late Wednesday that the revolt had been crushed, and Batista told the United Press during the night he is confident that the army can "eliminate the rebels throughout this island nation."

He broadcast claimed that "the (in-

Says State Must Accept Desegregation

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Fulaski Chancellor Guy E. Williams had a bit of advice today for U. Simpson Tate, Negro attorney from Dallas, who was in his court on a case involving the State Sovereignty Commission.

"Be careful and don't let those others you run around with corrupt you—I mean the lawyers, not the ministers," Judge Williams said with a grin.

Three other Negro lawyers were working with Tate on the suit, and about 15 Negro ministers were spectators.

Triple Slayer on Stand in Murder Trial

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UP)—Triple slayer Thomas Whitaker and his wife-by-barter both took the stand Wednesday to testify Mrs. Whitaker's ex-husbands alleged sexual perversion led to a shotgun rampage last June.

Whitaker said his son, Jackie, 10, had told him on a fishing trip several days before the shooting that Stewart Martin, 43, had constantly visited him in the bryar bedroom.

Mrs. Dorothy Whitaker, 39, who swapped husbands with Whitaker's former wife, testified that her first mate, Martin, once kept a tape recording of her enforced intimacies with a carpenter.

Truckdriver Whitaker, 38, is charged with breaking into Martin's fashionable home three months after the double divorces and remarrying and killing his ex-wife, Mrs. Alma Martin; his daughter, Regina, 9, and his son.

The double-barreled testimony about Martins alleged sexual abnormalities was part of a defense move to prove Whitaker lost control of his senses, hence was mentally incompetent, when he invaded Martin's home.

Whitaker described his marriage with his first wife, which he said was shaky because of "bullheadedness on both sides. Later, they met Martin and his wife and began to double-date, concluding a wife-swapping deal at Martins' instigation, he said.

"His second wife later told him Martin was a pervert," Whitaker said, and, coupled with his sons story, led him to decide, "that with that big yellow streak down his back I could scare him (Martin) into letting those kids alone."

The truckdriver said he made his way into Martins' home by stealth and night of June 25, only to be surprised by Martin who "sneaked up on me. Martin called to his wife to telephone the sheriff, leading to an exchange of shots between the two men."

At this point, Whitaker said, he thought the "french door fell on me. Next thing I remember I saw

Martin running through a field and I think I shot at him. From there on I'm not sure what I did.

MAIMS LAWYER'S NOSE WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UP)—Silvio Provenzano, 38, was convicted of maiming Thursday by a Westchester County jury and was held for sentencing. He bit off the end of his wife's lawyer's nose.

HEALTH FACTS by BILL PRESSON Your Blue Cross-Blue Shield Representative

I want to tell you about an important development in the field of health. During April, your Arkansas Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plan is again opening its memberships to persons who are 65 years old or older. The enrollment is open during April only and will not be opened again for at least six months. For many of our Senior Citizens this is the only method of obtaining protection against the cost of illness and it's an opportunity that is too good to pass. If you want further information, I urge you to write to Dept. 65, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Little Rock, Ark. Be sure to give your name and complete address.

For the past few days I have been doing some reading on the disease that has become America's second leading killer — Cancer. Last year there were 250,000 known deaths in the United States due to cancer. Cancer of the stomach, alone causes about 40,000 deaths each year.

Cancer is NOT contagious; is not inherited; not caused by any foods or diet, nor by any germ. It is not confined to any age, sex or race. Cancer is curable in 60% of all cases, if discovered in its early growth and treated properly. In most cases, it is easily recognized by one of the known Seven Early Symptoms.

Learn the Seven Early Symptoms of Cancer from your doctor and if any of them occur, see your doctor immediately.
